"HITLER HAS DONE IT AGAIN" EXULTANT CRY FOLLOWING SPEECH

ENGLAND'S SETBACK

HENDREN NOT TO PLAY IN FINAL TEST

BROMLEY RUSHED TO HOSPITAL.

APPENDICITIS SYMPTOMS

All-Night Queue At Oval Gates.

London, To-day.

Patsy Hendren, England's No. 4 batsman and one of the world's best slips fieldsmen, is most unlikely to play in the final Test match against Australia at the Oval to-day, but C. F. Walters, who was suffering from a troublesome thigh injury, has been declared fit.

Hendren, owing to a badly bruised arm, has been medically advised not to play, was the statement issued by the Selection Committee after their meeting yesterday afternoon.—Reuter.

Japan militarists swept into power again when Admiral Reiske Okada, above, former Naval Minister, was appointed to form a Cabinet to succeed the Saito ministry which resigned.

ENGLAND TEST PLAYERS SHOW TRUE FORM

SUTCLIFFE SCORES 187 NOT OUT.

HAMMOND'S CENTURY AIDS SUSSEX DOWNFALL

London, To-day.

Verity, Sutcliffe, Hammond, Woolley and Gregory, five of the fourteen invited to attend the Oval for the fifth Test match to-day, excelled in the mid-week county cricket fixtures, which came to a conclusion yesterday.

Their performances were:—
Verity—5 for 44 v. Worcester.
Sutcliffe—187 not out v. Worcester.
Hammond—137 v. Sussex.
Woolley—104 v. Northants.
Gregory—114 v. Somerset.

Results, as cabled by Reuter, were:
At Lord's, Middlesex beat Derbyshire by 84 runs.
Middlesex: 295 and 227 (Copson 5 for 63).
Derbyshire: 136 (Smith 5 for 51) 212 (Sims 6 for 85).
At Weston-super-Mare, Surrey secured first innings points from Somerset.
Surrey: 461 for 9 dec. (Gregory 114).
Somerset: 213 and 249 for 1 (F. Lee 140).
At Dover, Kent defeated Northants by six wickets.
Northants: 157 (Timms 100, Freeman 7 for 81) and 340 (Bakewell 112, Freeman 7 for 125).
Kent: 304 (C. H. Knott 118) and 194 for 4 (Woolley 104).
At Southampton, Notts secured first innings points from Hampshire.
Hampshire: 494.
Notts: 495 for 8 (Hardstaff 158).
At Southend, Lancashire secured first innings points from Essex.
Lancashire: 269 (K. Farnes 5 for 55) and 235 (Nichols 7 for 84).
Essex: 257 and 163 for 6.

All-Night Queue.

London, To-day.

At 6 o'clock last night queues had already started forming at the gates of the Oval, the first arrivals being four men from the London districts, who, determined not to be late for the opening of the gates at 9 o'clock this morning, arrived prepared to spend the night in waiting. They carried cooking utensils in preparation for their night-out.—Reuter.

Bromley In Hospital.

London, To-day.

E. H. Bromley, the Australian batsman who played in the second Test at Lord's has been sent to hospital with all the symptoms of appendicitis, which developed following the extraction of some teeth.—Reuter.

"Note By Cricketer."

With the outfield exceedingly dry and fast and the wicket in superb condition the winning of the toss is likely to be worth 200 runs when play opens in the fifth and final Test match between England and Australia at the Oval to-day.

England will be without Patsy Hendren, but there is some consolation in the fact that C. F. Walters, Sutcliffe's partner and the greatest "find" since K. S. Duleep Singh, has been declared fit.

Frank Woolley, the "Adonis of cricket" has accepted the invitation to play, and all indications point to him replacing Hendren, in spite of the fact that Gregory was one of the original fourteen selected players.

England are likely to field three fast bowlers under the circumstance, and the probable teams are:

England—Sutcliffe, C. F. Walters, Hammond, Woolley, R. E. S. Wyatt (captain), Leyland, Ames, G. O. Allen, Verity, Bows and Clark.

Australia—W. M. Woodfull (captain), W. H. Ponsford, W. A. Brown, D. G. Bradman, S. J. McCabe, A. F. Kippax, A. G. Chipperfield, W. A. Oldfield, C. V. Grimmett, W. J. O'Reilly, and H. Ebeling.

The countries are now on level terms with 52 wins each in the whole series. On the present tour the Australians won at Trent Bridge, England won at Lord's, and the matches at Old Trafford and Leeds were left drawn. The last Test played at the Oval in 1930 was won by an innings by England.—(Continued on Page 9)

7.57 INS. RAINFALL THIS WEEK.

11.66 Above Average.

The local rainfall recorded at the Royal Observatory for the 24 hours ended 10.30 a.m. to-day was 3.27 inches, bringing the total since January 1 to 78.48 inches, as compared with a normal average of 81.82 inches.

Rain has fallen every day this week, to-day's fall bringing the total to 7.57 inches. This is the third day this week on which over an inch has fallen.

NO LANDSLIDE FOLLOW RAIN

In spite of the continuous heavy rains yesterday and last night, no further landslides were reported by the Public Works Department at 11 a.m. this morning.

2-HOUR ADDRESS ON EVE OF PLEBISCITE

REICH NOT GIVING UP HONOUR OR EQUALITY.

INGENIOUS RUSES EMPLOYED BY COMMUNIST AGITATORS

BERLIN, TO-DAY.

"HITLER HAS DONE IT AGAIN" IS THE EXULTANT BELIEF OF 100,000 FUNCTIONARIES OF THE NAZI PARTY WHO ARE JUBILANT AT THE SUCCESS WHICH REICH LEADER AND CHANCELLOR HITLER'S SPEECH LAST NIGHT APPEARS TO HAVE HAD.

They are confident that it has persuaded waverers to vote overwhelmingly for Hitler at to-morrow plebiscite.

Nevertheless, the strictest watch is being kept over hostile propaganda and precautionary arrests are said to have been made. Communists are believed to be active, employing all sorts of ruses, including the disguising of Communist pamphlets as sentimental novelettes, and photographing resolutions of the illegal Communist Party on tiny pieces of paper which are easily circulated and read with the aid of a magnifying glass.—Reuter.

GERMAN TERRORISM IN ITALY ALLEGED

Rumours Of Extremists' Assn. "To Teach Italy A Lesson"

Rome, To-day.

It is learned from a usually reliable source that three German Nazis were arrested in Rome recently and found to possess bombs. It is thought that they were intended for the purpose of terrorism in Italy.

The Italian attitude on the Austrian question caused great irritation in Germany, and it is rumoured that an Extremists' Association has been formed for the purpose of "teaching Italy a lesson."—Reuter.

BALLOON ASCENT STRATOSPHERE ATTEMPT

MAX COSYNS' NEW VENTURE.

Brussels, To-day.

A new stratosphere ascent by Professor Max Cosyns, companion to Professor Piccard on his first attempt, will be made to-day from Houthaven, Ardennes, where 300 soldiers were last night assisting in the work of inflating the huge balloon, the capacity of which is 14,000 cubic metres.

In the glare of floodlights, many journalists, photographers and the public watched the preparations. (Continued on Page 9)

The Colony Revenue and Expenditure account for the month of May, 1934, shows a credit balance of $15,020,076.88, made up as follows:
Excess of assets over liabilities on April 30	$14,957,177.81
Revenue for May	2,188,296.78
Total	$17,145,474.54
Expenditure during May	$2,125,398.66
Balance	$15,020,076.88
This gives an increase of	62,898.07

The actual revenue of the Colony to May 31, 1934 was $12,948,466.02, while the expenditure was $11,747,015.47, giving a balance of $1,196,450.55, as compared with an actual revenue of $15,890,188.81, and expenditure of $12,613,525.00, and a balance of $3,276,663.81 over the corresponding period last year.

WEATHER FORECAST

Cloudy, with rain and moderate east winds, was the weather forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory this morning.

Rumours from Berlin state that Lieut. Col. Oskar von Hindenburg (left), son and special aide of the late President von Hindenburg, is being groomed to succeed Chancellor Hitler with whom he is shown at a recent meeting. Young von Hindenburg is said to be at the head of the military movement preparing to replace the Nazi dictatorship.

MINISTER TO PHILIPPINES

SUCCESSFUL VACCINE FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Sensational Discovery Obtained From Spinal Cords Of Monkeys

Philadelphia, To-day.

The discovery of a successful vaccine for infantile paralysis, obtained from the spinal cords of monkeys, has been announced by Dr. John A. Kolmer, the well-known pathologist, who demonstrated its effectiveness by experiments on monkeys, followed by sub-cutaneous injections into himself and his assistant.—Reuter.

BRITISH GIRLS LOSE ELIMINATED FROM U.S. TENNIS.

Forest Hills, To-day.

The remaining British entrants were eliminated in the quarter-finals of the American Women's National Singles Lawn Tennis championship yesterday, Freda James losing to Sarah Palfrey, and Kathleen Stemmers bowing to Miss Babcock.

Helen Jacobs defeated Elizabeth Ryan, and Miss Andrus defeated Baroness Levi. The semi-finals will be played to-day.

Results, as cabled by Reuter, were:
Miss S. Palfrey beat Miss F. James, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1.
Miss H. Jacobs beat Miss E. Ryan, 6-0, 6-1.
Miss Andrus beat Baroness Levi, 6-1, 6-4.
Miss Babcock beat Miss K. Stemmers, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

FOOCHOW NEARLY NORMAL.

Reassuring Reports In London.

COMMUNISTS PURSUED

London, To-day.

Latest reports received here indicate that everything is apparently quiet, if not entirely normal in Foochow, which has for some time been menaced by the approach of Communist forces.

Reports state that these forces are being gradually suppressed North of the town, and the river is reported clear of them as far as Yangping. The main body has moved towards Lankiang, with troops of the 49th and 87th divisions of the Chinese Army in pursuit.—British Wireless Service.

MR. T. I. DUNN CHINESE ENVOY TO THE ISLANDS

Southern Co-operation His Big Aim.

CHINA'S PROGRESSIVE ADVANCE

"Under the present circumstances we have the best government in Nanking that we can possibly have," said Mr. Tsoong Lung Dunn, the newly appointed Chinese Minister Plenipotentiary to the Philippine Islands, to a China Mail representative in an exclusive interview yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Jackson Lao at Kowloon Tong.

The Chinese Minister arrived in the Colony yesterday by the s.s. President Polk, and was warmly welcomed by Mr. Jackson Lao, his former companion at the St. John's University, Shanghai, where Mr. Dunn was a graduate. Accompanying Mr. Dunn are his wife, two children, and Mr. P. S. Lu, a Chancellor appointed to the Consulate.

SOUTHERN CO-OPERATION

"During my term of office in Manila, I hope to increase and to promote a better understanding between China and the Philippine Islands," said Mr. Dunn. He continued by saying that his aim would be to find a way for the promotion of Chinese trade.

He declared that he will also attempt to better the Chinese condition on the Islands and to attempt to bring about a closer co-operation among the Chinese in the South. (Continued on Page 11)

Duke Of Gloucester To Board At Marseilles.

London, To-day.

The cruiser H.M.S. Sussex, in which H.R.H. the Duke of Gloucester will make his trip to Australia, where he will take part in the Melbourne Centenary celebrations, arrived at Sheerness yesterday on the completion of the trials.

On Friday next she will sail for Gibraltar and Marseilles. The Duke will travel overland to Marseilles and join H.M.S. Sussex there.—British Wireless Service.

TEXTILE STRIKE

EXPECTED TO BE CALLED ON AUGUST 29 OR 30

WAGE INCREASE OUT OF QUESTION.

MILLS REFUSE TO RECOGNISE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

Resolution To Join Cotton Strike.

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received August 18, 10.10 a.m.)

New York, To-day.

It is expected that the strike in the United States textile industry will be called on August 29 or 30 unless their demands are met. The major grievance, it is stated, is that the mills refuse to recognize the union collective bargaining.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

Hopeless Position.

Washington, To-day.

It will be recalled that the National Recovery Administration, in June, reported that the textile industry was in no position to increase wages. It has been operating at 75 per cent. of Code capacity since May.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

COPPER MINING SITUATION

Butte, To-day.

Anaconda Mine officials and the unionists yesterday held a conference with the mediators who are seeking to end the copper mining and smelting strike.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

Federation Behind The Workers.

Atlantic City, To-day.

At Atlantic City yesterday, Mr. William H. Green, President of the American Federation of Labour, said that the Federation was standing behind the textile workers in their demands, which he hoped would be granted without recourse to a strike.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

U.S. CROP CONTROL POLICIES.

Drastic Revisions.

Washington, To-day.

Drastic revisions of the American crop control policies are being formulated, following the report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, that the normal surpluses in practically all the staple farm products have been wiped out by the drought. It is understood that while production control would not be abandoned, emphasis will be laid on the expanding of acreage which is to compensate for drought losses.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

UNA MERKEL'S "NAPOLEON" HAT

Una Merkel, lunching at the Vendome recently, wore the first "Napoleon" hat seen here. Of black shiny straw, it was turned sharply off the face at the hairline, and held in place with a tiny silver bow over the left ear. Una's suit had a plain black velvet skirt and a jacket of black velvet plaided in grey.

NORMA SHEARER'S NOVEL COIFFURE

Norma Shearer's presence at Francis Lederer's opening of "Autumn Crocus" brought forth the usual admiration for this girl's becoming and different coiffure. Brushed straight back from the face, Miss Shearer's hair remains totally untraced except for the ends, which are curled crisply around her head.

FLOWING—OR FRILLED

Romantic Gowns For Summer Evenings

INVISIBLE SHOULDER STRAPS

For the lovely afternoons at the country summer resort, Katherine De Mille, motion picture player, chooses a peasant gown. It is of white handkerchief linen with a blouse in printed design of the same material. The only trimming is a white and printed linen belt with a buckle carrying out the printed colours in the blouse.

THE NEW YELLOW Seen Also In Straw And Felt Hats.

A short coatee of a yellow iris design was unusual recently, seen over a tightly buttoned corselet skirt of black faille. A jabot of lace and yellow lisse with gold buttons was worked in, and fanciful black suede gauntlet gloves were worn. This was completed by a "sombbrero" of yellow felt. Yellow, not always a becoming shade, is peculiarly smart. Yellow certainly prevails both in straw and felt in the very new hats.

ELIZABETH ALLAN'S SHOPPING COSTUME

Elizabeth Allan's shopping costume the other day attracted no end of attention along Hollywood Boulevard. A light grey woollen material formed the background of her swaggy suit, which was trimmed in the gayest plaid on the sleeves, yoke and collar. This treatment of plaid, as a highlight to a more sober background, gives promise of being very popular this spring.

London.

The dressmakers have been putting nearly all our ideas about evening clothes into reverse, and to confuse us further, contradicting themselves flatly.

There is, for instance, the designer who, after building up a dress in the grand manner, suddenly decided not to add any shoulder straps. People blink when they see this gown, for it is cut low not only at the back but in the front as well. But it is held up by boning spread cunningly around inside the bodice, and is actually quite comfortable to wear.

Then there is the evening suit, differing completely from that dramatic line. The skirt is given a high-waisted effect which fastens over the blouse, and there is a prim little long-sleeved jacket in the skirt material. It is done in chiffon or lace or net, and is the sort of thing to wear for the evening which starts at a cocktail party in town and goes on in the country or up the river.

If you like clothes that are uncommon but not obvious, I should prescribe something like the dress I saw the other evening.

An Evening Frock

It was a plain, black taffeta, very rustling and feminine, with a throat-high neck in front and a low back décolletage, edged all round with a small frill of organdi. Organdi, too, followed the line of the armholes. Beneath the skirt, and glimpsed below and through a modest slit in the side, foamed more organdi frills attached, presumably, to a petticoat.

Every man was obviously thinking, "How delightfully fresh she looks," and every woman looked the thought, "What laundry bills she must run up!"

For the sake of economy, the frilling can be made in the frock material, but this must be fairly stiff. Organdi, organza, stiffened muslin, and taffeta are the fabrics to use.

Simpler Styles

Some designers, on the other hand, seem to loathe the very idea of frills and flounces. They much prefer to give their dresses long, simple, flowing lines, and complete them draping a fichu round the shoulders.

Unless you are youthful and quick of movement, this is an excellent type of gown to choose. That fichu holds more romance in its folds than five miles of frills. There ought to be romance in

Just to the waistline comes the new sweater with clever puff sleeves, worn with a nonchalant white silk neckerchief and white flannel skirt. Simply and charmingly, it is modelled by Muriel Evans, motion picture actress.

GOLD ORNAMENTS IN PARIS VOGUE.

Trend Towards Precious Metal Growing.

Paris. A necklace worn by one of the celebrities of Paris consists of several rows of gold beads with a scarlet cord which extends down the back. The tendency toward combining precious metals, such as gold, with materials of less commercial value is well illustrated in another necklace of twisted hemp at the ends of which are gold cuplike ornaments, chain and ball.

Tanned Skins

Times have indeed changed since it was not considered proper to wear jewelry with sport ensembles—and this goes for gold today, which is worn extensively with the yellow metal. This, we explained, is partially due to the gold blending so well with tanned skins polished with glistening oils and the new spring fabrics of brown, orange, yellow and green—plus the tropic touches of brilliancy.

Bracelets of gold are in big demand, Carter and Mauboussin selling quantities of them in massive shapes, but paradoxically light in weight. (That seems to be a trade secret which nobody is divulging). Anyway, a lot of them are worn on the outside of gloves and form temporary cuffs—they are too large to be considered under a glove, without making the wrist look deformed.

the wrap, too. I have nothing against the attractive and convenient little taffe jackets which every other woman seems to be wearing just now, but for these warm nights why not have something unusual; something, in fact, like the new version of the "fascinator" in the sketch? This is simply a big square of organdi with a frilled edge.

Constant Ironing

It demands an ironing every time it is worn, but that is easily done and the effect is worth it. You can wear it with the corner framing your face and head or falling back on your shoulders, or you can fold it corner-wise and wear it as a cape. No paper pattern is issued for this, but it can be easily made at home.

A white organdi cape or wrap makes even the plainest black dress look expensive. A cheering thought, especially now, when you can buy organdi for next to nothing in the sales.

New Shoulder Lines

"Drooping" Effect Displaces "Square" Shoulders

BIBS AND PLASTRONS ARE PRACTICAL

By day, the most important piece of news is the absolute disappearance of the square shoulder line and the arrival of the new "drooping" shoulders. Necks remain for the most part as high as ever, but instead of sweeping out from the neck to the shoulders with something masculine in its boldness, your dress or coat adopts the sloping fall so characteristic of the Victorian era.

This is sometimes achieved by raglan cut, sometimes by a cape-like line; the designer varies his methods, but the result is invariably a smooth, sloping shoulder, with all the sleeve interest kept sternly downwards; individuality in sleeves may only be developed at the point a little above the elbows.

"Wind Blown" Collars

This sloping might tend to become monotonous but, for the amazing variety of neck and collar treatments now in vogue. "Wind-blown" collars thrust their revers to the front, subtly draped collars have a "tumbled" forward movement, ripples, ruchings and ruffles all suggest that a breeze is blowing gaily at your back.

Then there are all the new and amusing bibs and plastrons of organdi, pique linen or—newest of all—printed crepe. The bibs are made in every conceivable shape and size; the plastrons are sometimes simple, sometimes elaborately pleated, finished at the neck line with a narrow upstanding collar or frill, and caught at the waist by a girdle or belt. Since these bibs and plastrons are quickly detached and easily washed they are thoroughly practical as well as smart; and, by having two or three different types, you can ring the changes on a single dress.

PURPLE IS JEAN HARLOW'S FAVOURITE COLOUR

Jean Harlow's latest colour rage is for purple. She wears varying shades of this colour in different materials, but her favourite dress is of pansey-purple chiffon velvet, with chinchilla fur sleeves.

BRIDGE NOTES

WINNING LINE.

by Ely Culbertson.

When several lines of play are open to a Declarer, the success of any one of them being dependent upon the opposing cards being divided in a certain manner, there is a considerable amount of guess-work involved. In other words, knowledge of the correct technique will very frequently not suffice if the player is unable to make some approximate guess as to the opponents' distribution.

On the hand below South made a very lucky decision, based upon some logic, and fulfilled his plan with faultless technique.

3 H Pass 4 H Pass

5 C Pass 6 H Pass

The bidding needs no particular comment. After North's

Forcing bid and subsequent heart

support South, with considerably more than a minimum hand, declares he must make a mild Slam

try, which North immediately accepts. North does not bid four notrump, despite his holding of three Aces, as in case South has a minimum hand, he does not wish to arbitrarily push the contracting to the level of five.

West's Opening lead was the Queen of clubs, which Declarer won in his own hand. A glance at Dummy told South that the contract could be made very simply on a simple cross-ruff, provided East held three or more clubs,

or, failing that, only a doubleton club but no Ten of hearts. One round of trump was immediately

played, and both opponents followed. At this point South indulged in some serious guesswork

and, despite the fact that he made a lucky decision, he had a sound basis of logic to go by. West, an eminently sound player, had over-

called vulnerable with a suit

headed by no better than the

King-Knave-Ten and no outside high cards.

Therefore West's hand must be fortified by unusual distribution, and it was likely, particularly after the Opening club lead into

South's hand, that West held five clubs, and that a normal line of play would be doomed to defeat;

South therefore tackled the hand

from an entirely different angle.

After drawing one round of trump South played the Ace and

King of diamonds and his second and his second high club, and ruffed a third round of clubs with the Ace of hearts in Dummy. He now proceeded to play out his remaining hearts, and West was forced to hold a high club and a guard for his spade King, which he did, even though he inwardly knew that all was lost.

At trick 11, Declarer led out his last club, and West won, but was

NEW YORK'S 3-YEAR-OLD RACKETEER

Police Fall For "Lost Child" Trick.

ONE WAY TO GET CANDY

A new and precocious type of racketeer has made its appearance in Brooklyn, New York's largest suburb, in the person of Carmine Varricello, a three-year-old lad, described in police records as being 2 ft. 6 in. tall, weighing 3 st. 8 lb. with brown hair and eyes.

Unlike every other type of racketeer, Carmine works his racket on the police themselves, boldly invading police stations for the purpose.

The racket was exposed when Carmine toddled into a Brooklyn police station with the information that he was lost. According to the police, when questioned he "wouldn't talk" beyond giving his name and age. When asked where he lived, who was his mamma and where he had left her, he merely grinned and prattled: "Still more closely questioned, he began to whimper."

A stale-mate followed, during which the police, touched by the little wanderer's plight, piled him up with cake, chocolate milk and lollipops.

When Carmine's father arrived, having sent out an alarm for his lost boy, he grabbed the young man with a strange gleam in his eyes. Whether he was just indignant or whether he felt a touch of pride was not stated.

What he said was: "It's a racket. This is the third time he's gone off and got himself lost. The first time was on the level, I guess. That taught him that candy and cake and milk and pick-a-back rides can be had in any house with green lights and men in blue uniforms in front of it."—Reuter.

AMAZING CHASE IN AUSTRALIA

Colourful Episode In Police History.

DESPERADO CAPTURED

Darwin, Northern Territory. The capture by Constable W. C. Littlejohn, of "Butcher," the Oompell aborigine, who is alleged to have killed William Jennings and a lubra at a buffalo-shooting camp on the Mary River, and wounded Jack Gaden and a lubra, forms one of the most colourful episodes in the Northern Territory's police history.

Constable Littlejohn, on arrival at Darwin with "Butcher," safely handcuffed to his tracker, told of the chase through crocodile-infested swamps, miles of 50 ft. high bamboo forests, and across plains where herds of wild buffalo stampeded in terror at the sight of the police horsemen.

For a week "Butcher," armed with a rifle, eluded pursuit, continually doubling on his tracks, but never very far ahead. Once he was traced through a crocodile swamp where the police horses floundered belly-deep in mud. "Hark, pressed all the time, the aborigine had no time to hunt food and gradually made his way back to the camp of Mr. Russell Gaden, brother of the man whom he had wounded, apparently planning to steal supplies.

Guessing "Butcher's" intentions, Littlejohn also made for Gaden's and set a trap. After pitching his camp he sent his trackers crawling out for 50 yards. Just before midnight a stick was thrown into the camp, but knowing it was only a ruse to see whether anybody was awake, the hidden trackers did not move. A few minutes later "Butcher" crawled right into the arms of two trackers, who held him, despite his mad struggles, until Littlejohn dashed up.—Reuter.

A STRONGER BRITAIN FOR PEACE

But apart from the professional pacifists, there is a solid body of opinion in Great Britain which is sincerely and passionately devoted to the cause of peace, and which politicians will ignore at their peril.

How, in present circumstances and in the light of past experience, can we preserve peace? That is the question on every-one's lips to-day.

I believe the answer is two-fold: (1) By declaring a foreign policy which the rest of the world can understand; and (2) By increasing the strength of our defensive forces.

There are some who advocate a policy of "splendid isolation" for this country, and I have considerable sympathy with this view.

But we have never been able to tolerate the occupation of the Low Countries by a strong and hostile Power. And since the advent of the aeroplane we can afford to do so less than ever.

For this season I do not think we ought to repudiate the Treaty of Locarno; but we ought, to re-define, very clearly, what we regard as our obligations under it. And we ought to say that, while we will fight in defence of them, and of ourselves, we will fight for nothing else.

NO DANCING AT "Y" GALAS

Alternative To Ending
Carnivals

AQUATIC COMMITTEE DECISION

It was decided that dancing would be discontinued at the future monthly swimming galas of the European Y.M.C.A. at the monthly meeting held at the "Y" last evening. The proposal was made as an alternative to the suggestion to abandon the next monthly swimming gala owing to the hot weather.

Mr. A. G. Donn presided and those present were Mr. R. Goldman (Hon. Secretary), Mr. E. F. Selk (Hon. Treasurer), Mr. W. S. Kerr, Mr. H. G. Lange, Miss A. Fowler and Miss J. Weller.

Mr. R. Goldman's resignation from the Hon. Secretaryship was accepted, and Mr. E. F. Selk was elected joint Hon. Secretary and Treasurer.

Mr. Kerr suggested that the next monthly swimming gala should not be held owing to the hot weather, but Miss Fowler said that the gala could be held without a dance, which was seconded by Mr. Donn and passed unanimously. Dancing at future

MAMAK HOCKEY TO CONTINUE ASSOCIATION NOT TO ORGANISE LEAGUE

IN the face of the suggestion that the Mamak Hockey Tournament should be discontinued for at least three years so as to allow the Hong Kong Hockey Association to organise a league, it was unanimously decided at the annual general meeting of the Mamak Tournament last evening, that the Tournament should be continued.

Mr. P. Singh (Radio S. C.), who was against the proposal that the Tournament should continue, said that hockey leagues by other sports outfits might be organised at a later date in competition to the present league. The competition, he thought, should be organised by the Association.

It was pointed out that the Association were not prepared to organise a competition this season and were in favour of the Mamak Tournament continuing. "They did not consider that they were sufficiently organised to undertake a competition at this early date," was the statement made to the meeting by the Hon. Secretary, Mr. P. J. Barlow.

Proposed by Captain Whelton and seconded by Lt. Flowerdew, the resumption of the Mamak Tournament under its present name was carried unanimously.

Mr. O. England White presided, and those present were, Mr. P. J. Barlow, Hon. Secretary, Mr. A. E. P. Guest (Assistant Secretary), Mr. N. A. F. Mackay (Hon. Treasurer), Mr. A. A. Dand, Mr. F. A. Kemp, Pay Comdr. Le Cias R. N. (representing the Royal Navy), Captain P. S. Cannon (Hon. Sec. K. Area Sport Board), Captain J. H. Whelton (Army Hockey Secretary), Lt. G. D. H. Flowerdew (12th Battery), Captain M. A. J. Campbell R.A., Captain P. F. Foley (R.E.), Lt. J. H. Jeffers (R.A.S.C.), Messrs. R. H. Wong (St. Andrews'), Chiu Kin-shing (United), I. Hussain (Police), Jehan Dad (K.L.T.C.), P. Singh (Radio), Sig. A. F. Austen (R.C.S.), A. W. Kirton Vaughan (R.A.M.C.) and D. E. Gubbay (United).

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mr. E. W. Hamilton, the former President of the Mamak Tournament, and President of the Hong Kong Hockey Association, was re-elected by unanimous vote. The Vice-Presidents elected were Surg. Lt. Comdr. A. E. Phillips, R.N. (Navy), Major M. A. J. Campbell R.A. (Army) and Mr. A. A. Dand (Civilians).

Mr. O. England White was re-elected Chairman of the Executive Council for the fourth year in succession. Mr. P. J. Barlow was re-elected Hon. Secretary and Mr. N. A. F. Mackay, Hon. Treasurer, Mr. E. F. Selk (R.C.S.) was elected Assistant Hon. Secretary in place of Mr. A. E. P. Guest, who resigned.

It was mentioned that the Mule Corps, who withdrew early in the competition last year, would re-enter the league, while H.M.S. Whitehall would make their debut in the competition.

VANDERWEGHE'S FEAT IN JAPAN MEDICA BEATEN OVER 1,500 METRES JAPANESE CHAMPIONSHIPS

TOKYO, AUG. 13.

ALBERT VANDERWEGHE, AMERICAN BACKSTROKE CHAMPION AND ONE OF THREE AMERICANS WHO PARTICIPATED IN THE JAPANESE NATIONAL SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIPS, TO-DAY DEMONSTRATED THAT HE IS THE WORLD'S GREATEST BACKSTROKE EXPONENT WHEN HE WON THE FINAL OF THE 200 METERS BACKSTROKE AND ESTABLISHED A NEW WORLD'S RECORD OF 2 MINS. 33.2 SECS. FOR THE EVENT.

Vanderweghe, who came into prominence in the 1932 World Olympic Games, won the 100-Meters backstroke yesterday, negotiating the distance in 1 min. 8.8 secs. His time in the trials when he captured first place in one of the heats was 1 min. 13 secs.

Kiichi Yoshida, hitherto unknown schoolboy, finished second in the 200 Meters backstroke to-day, nosing out Kentaro Kawazu, who placed second in this event in the 1932 Olympic Games at Los Angeles. Kawazu finished third.

JACK MEDICA, AMERICA'S GREATEST SWIMMING MARVEL, SCORED THE SECOND AMERICAN TRIUMPH IN A FINAL TO-DAY WHEN HE OUTSWAM A STRONG FIELD IN THE 400 METER FREE STYLE. HIS TIME WAS 4 MINS. 47.8 SECS.

OLYMPIC STAR LASHED FOR CONCEITEDNESS

Harsh Measures In North China

PROMISED REWARD LOST

Tsinanfu, Shantung. Harsh measures were taken by military authorities here to break the conceit of a soldier who had suddenly gained fame as an athlete. The young man was Chiu Chung-shen, formerly the bodyguard of a military commander in Tsinanfu. When Chiu showed ability as a middle-distance runner, his superior relieved him of his military duties and made him caretaker of the public recreation ground at Tsinanfu.

Chiu later competed in the Far Eastern Olympics at Manila, as a member of the Chinese team.

When, on his return from Manila, Chiu was alleged to have shown signs of conceit, his commander ordered him beaten 200 times with a rod. On top of this, Chiu was deprived of $75 reward which had been promised him by his superior. Associated Press.

SARAH PALFREY WINS TITLE

Beats Jane Sharp In Straight Sets

LONGWOOD TOURNAMENT

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 10. Miss Sarah Palfrey defeated Miss Jane Sharp, of Los Angeles, here to-day in the finals to win the Longwood women's tournament by 6-4, 6-2.

The "Dresden China" Boston girl, heroine of this year's Wightman Cup play against Britain in England, is rated as a leading contender this year for the national title, held by Helen Jacobs of California.

At Wimbledon she beat both Dorothy Round and Peggy Scriven, the former being the world's No. 1 ranking player, while Miss Palfrey rates No. 7. She upset Miss Jacobs last year at Seabright, N.J.

At 15 she paired with Mrs. George W. Wightman to capture the national indoor women's doubles, and is now only 21 and has three national indoor singles titles to her credit.

Shoso Makino, claimant of the 400, 800 and 1,000 metres freestyle world records, placed second to Medica with Hiroshi Negami, Japan's new distance star, coming in third.

Arthur Highland, the third of the American invaders, nearly secured another victory for America in the 100 Meters free style event, but Masanori Yusa, member of the record-breaking Olympic 800-meters team in 1932, staged a brilliant finish to beat the American by inches at the finish. Yusa's time was 59 seconds flat. Sakagami finished third to Highland.

Reizo Koike, holder of the world's Olympic record in the 200 meters breaststroke but who bowed in defeat during the last Far Eastern Games, won his favourite event to-day, negotiating the distance in 2 mins. 45 secs. This time is only one-tenth of a second slower than his own world's record for the event.

Tetsuo Mauro, the schoolboy who is new to international competition, finished second to Koike while Nakagawa finished third.

A crowd of 15,000 people, including Prince and Princess Chichibu witnessed the swimming finals in which the American invaders made such a brilliant showing. Associated Press.

Two World Records

Medica, startling Seattle aquatic marvel, did not do so well in the 1,500-Meters freestyle event which Negami won in 19 minutes, 16 and 6/10 seconds. In winning, however, Negami was forced by the American star to establish two new world records, Medica pushing him throughout, though finally winding up in third place.

Medica was timed at 19 minutes, 32-3/10 seconds, just 16 seconds behind his speedy opponents. The finish was a brilliant one.

It was announced after the race that Negami had established new world records for the 800 and 1,000-meter distances during the battle. The Japanese was clocked 10 minutes, 4 and 2/10 seconds for the 1,000-meter distance.

The American swimmers departed from the United States on July 15, lead by Coach Robert Kipnuth. Peter Flick, sprinter, was to have been a member of the squad, but was unable to make the trip, hence, the substitution of Highland. United Press.

PHILIPPINES WILLING TO ENTER GAMES

Shanghai Olympiad
In 1938.

BUT NOT AS MEMBER
OF THE F.E.A.A.

Manila, August 14.

Commenting on confirmed recent reports that China refuses to recognize the dissolution of the Far Eastern Athletic Association and is making plans for the holding of the Games in Shanghai in 1938, Jorge Vargas, vice-president of the executive committee of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation, declared that "the Philippines is willing to take part in any athletic games held by China to which we are invited," writes the "Manila Daily Bulletin."

Mr. Vargas, however, went on to state that if the Philippines do participate in the 1938 games in Shanghai it will not be as a member of the Far Eastern Athletic Association since that association, as far as the Philippines is concerned, has been dissolved and no longer exists.

Mr. Vargas declared that it is possible that China will "re-organize" the F.E.A.A. with India, the Netherlands Indies, French Indo-China and other countries as members.

He indicated that if such is the case the Philippines would consider an invitation to participate in the games, but only as a guest participant and not as a member of the association.

At the close of the Far Eastern Games last May Japan and the Philippines, "dissolved" the Far Eastern Athletic Association of the Orient. China refused to recognize the dissolution of the F.E.A.A. and contended that the action of Japan and the Philippines was illegal since there was no quorum, only the representatives of Japan and the Philippines being present and acting.

It was also decided at the same meeting to hold games under the auspices of the new association in Tokyo in 1938. In view of the attitude of P.A.A.F. officials, as expressed by Mr. Vargas, the Philippines may therefore compete in both the Tokyo and Shanghai games in 1938 unless the time set for these respective meets conflict with each other.

LEO DIEGEL'S PRAISE FOR THE BRITISH GOLFER

"They Strike The Ball Beautifully"

THE COTTON MACHINE

New York.
Leo Diegel, the "demon putter," says that Great Britain has a flock of remarkable professional golfers—men whose methods of stroke production excel those of the Americans, in an interview with the "New York Sun."

"The Britishers strike the ball beautifully. They have more artistic shots than we have, and they have always scored phenomenally in their own closed tournaments. But until Cotton broke the spell they were obsessed by a peculiar mental delusion that they could not beat the Americans at medal play."

"Padgham is the nearest approach to Vardon that modern golf has yet seen."

He produces each stroke in the same classic manner and fades his irons on to the pin just as the old master used to do. I recall Vardon at Inverness and when I first watched Padgham swing the similarity was astounding.

"Cotton is more of the Duncan order and reminds one of a machine. You wonder how he ever misses a putt."

"His recent victory ought to be just the tonic British professional golf needed. It smashed the myth of American infallibility.—Reuter."

ENGLAND TEST PLAYERS SHOW THEIR TRUE FORM

The biggest upset was the defeat of Sussex, who until the beginning of the week led the County Championship, at the hands of Gloucester. Winning by 7 wickets Gloucester compiled the enormous first innings total of 608 for 7, a score which included three centuries—Barnett 189, Hammond 187, and B. H. Lyon 119. Sussex pluckily replied with 442, but were forced to follow on. They were then dismissed for 217, Goddard securing 6 for 71. This was the second defeat inflicted on Sussex this season.

Yorkshire made a further step towards retaining the championship by defeating Worcester by an innings and 26 runs.

Lancashire, who took the lead in the County Championship at the beginning of the week, were only able to secure first innings points from Essex. K. Farnes and Nichols, the Essex fast bowlers provided the outstanding feats, taking 5 for 55 and 7 for 84, respectively. County Championship.

IRELAND WIN AT POLO

Empire Challenge
Trophy By 12 To 3

ENGLAND AND NAVY
FALL BY WAYSIDE

London, July 23.

Three polo "cup finals" were played in London on Saturday. At Hurlingham, in the final tie of the tournament for the Social Clubs' Cup, the Cavalry Club "B" team beat Buck's Club by 6 goals to 4; at Roehampton, the 19th Field Brigade R. A. defeated the 5th Inniskilling Dragoon Guards in the final tie for the Military Handicap Challenge Cup by 8 goals to 4; and the Ragbills just won their match against the Chinchillas in the final of the Young Cup, by 8 goals to 7½, after allowing the Chinchillas 2½ goals start.

Ireland beat England. Two important representative matches were played in mid-week. At Hurlingham, Ireland beat England (represented by a Hurlingham club side) by 12 goals to 3 and thus won the Empire Challenge Cup. This is the third time they have won the trophy since 1928, when the contest was inaugurated.

At Ranelagh the Royal Navy were beaten by the Royal Air Force for the first time since 1930 in the annual match for the Duke of York's Cup. Scores were level at 3-all at half-time, but the play in the second half was almost entirely in favour of the R.A.F. and they went ahead to win by 9 goals to 4.

TO-DAY'S SCOTTISH FOOTBALL

HEARTS TO HOLD CELTIC IN GLASGOW?

JUNIOR TEAMS NOT FANCIED

THE second bloc of fixtures in the Scottish Football League to-day provides many interesting encounters, chief among which are the clashes between Glasgow Rangers, League and Cup holders, and Motherwell, League runners-up last year, at Hampden Park, and that between the Hearts and Celtic.

The Rangers opened the season with an easy fixture at Dunfermline, but Motherwell preferred to tackle and beat Queen of the South, third in the table last season. The corresponding game last year resulted in a draw, but the Rangers are expected to win to-day on their own ground.

The Celtic made an auspicious debut against Kilmarnock last Saturday, and do not appear likely to follow the downward path they did early last season. A draw is the most likely result, as the Hearts are no mean side, and the inter-city rivalry is always an additional stimulus.

GORDON LUM BEATEN BY OHTA IN SHANGHAI

But Khoo Avenges
Defeat

JAPANESE TOURING TEAM

Shanghai, August 12.

A record-breaking crowd filled the stands yesterday afternoon at the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association's court to witness three exhibition matches between the visiting Japanese team and an Association team made up of foreign and Chinese players.

Play opened with a singles between T. Watanabe and Guy Cheng, which resulted in a win for Cheng after three hard-fought sets. The scores were 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

L. Ohta and Gordon Lum followed, the former winning in two sets, by 9-7, 6-4.

The doubles was just completed as darkness fell. L. D. Carson and M. Benavitch, winning in two sets by 6-4, 6-2 against T. Watanabe and S. Kodera.

Ohta represented Japan in the Davis Cup from 1927 to 1930, and ran Jean Borotra to five sets in 1930.

Japanese Disappoint

Shanghai, August 13.
The visiting Japanese team were completely out of the picture in yesterday's exhibition matches at the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association's court, being beaten in two singles and one doubles match. Gordon Lum and C. C. Cheng accounted for S. Kodera and H. Yoshida in straight sets, by 6-3, 6-3. T. Watanabe, who played such a good game on Saturday, was to have played in this match, but, owing to a slight illness, was sent to hospital, Yoshida taking his place and doing excellently.

The second match was the best of the afternoon, when Y. Ohta lost to Khoo Hooi-hye by 6-4, 6-2.

A singles match between Carson and S. Kodera went to three sets, Kodera winning the first at 6-2 but losing the following two at 3-6, 3-6.

SHARE MARKET.

Weekly Report.

Mr. G. A. Harriman's weekly share report and market review issued at noon yesterday.

A dull market was experienced during the past week and prices in many instances registered a decline, especially Hong Kong Lands which again touched new low levels with business done down to $51 1/2, rallying towards the close to $53.00.

Investment issues on the whole were easier though Wharves were in demand at $112, Star Ferries at $100, Hong Kong Trams at $21 1/2 and Hong Kong Electric at $71.25.

Telephones (old) came to business at $24/24.20. Minor issues were generally lower, China Lights (old) having changed hands at $3.80/3.75, Hotels at $5.45, and Cements at $2.55.

Providents received a little with sales effected at $1.65 for the old shares. Construction (old) continued in demand at $1.80, with the new shares enquired for at 78 cents. Sterling counters again eased off slightly with Hong Kong Banks done at $17.30 and Unions at $535/37. The tone of the market at the close is quietly easy.

Business during the week has been done at the following prices: Hong Kong Banks $17.30, Union Insurances $535-537, China Underwriters $1.30, Hong Kong Lands $51 1/2/53.00, Hotels $5.50/5.55, Providents (old) $1.65, Hong Kong Trams $21.10, China Lights (old) $3.75/3.80, Hong Kong Electric $72 1/2, Telephones (old) $24.00/24.20, Cements $2.55/2.57 1/2, Dairy Farms $25.85, Antamoks 60 cts, Gold Rivers 23/24 cts.

FATAL TRAFFIC ACCIDENT

Chinese Woman Killed By Police Van.

CORONER'S INQUIRY VERDICT

"Accidental death" was the verdict returned by the jury at the inquiry on the death of a Chinese woman, Au Yeung-kit, who was killed by a police van at Lyndhurst Terrace on the night of July 28.

Another woman Li Fung-kau, was also badly injured.

Yesterday was the final hearing of the inquest held at the Central Magistracy with Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen, sitting as Coroner, assisted by the following jury: Mr. A. G. Safford (foreman), L. A. Rozario and Lee Yook-tong.

The jury added a recommendation, owing to the dangerous nature of the turning corner between Lyndhurst Terrace and Hollywood Road, "which encourages cutting of the corner," the discontinuance of the downward traffic by motor cars from Hollywood going west and turning into Lyndhurst Terrace.

The jury also expressed sympathy with the relatives.

MISADVENTURE VERDICT.

Inquest On Death Of R.A.F. Adjutant.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

A verdict of death of misadventure was returned by the jury at the Coroner's inquiry held at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday into the circumstances attending the death of Flying Officer George Robert Murphy, Adjutant of the R.A.F. Kai Tak Air Base, who was found on the evening of August 9 with a bullet wound in his left breast.

The jury empanelled to assist the Coroner, Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones, expressed the opinion that the discharge of the pistol, which inflicted the fatal wound, was accidental.

It was disclosed in evidence that two shots were fired from Flying Officer Murphy's gun, but only one of them struck him. The other was apparently fired at the window of his room. Witnesses told of hearing the two shots just before the tragedy was discovered.

The officer's "boy" said that his master showed signs of distress before the shooting occurred.

The jury consisted of Messrs. A. H. Harbord (foreman), A. P. Brown and Chau Yu-ning.

Mr. J. B. Prentiss was in Court on behalf of the Royal Air Force.

Police investigations were conducted by Sub-Inspector E. G. Post.

A Bill introduced in the House by Mr. Mitchell, Democratic Representative from Tennessee, would have a mountain more than 2,000 feet high in his state named "Mount Roosevelt."

"Honourable Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States, has instituted a mighty national recovery programme, included in which are many needed and useful projects in Tennessee."

"He envisioned the tremendous possibilities of the muscle shoals, the Tennessee Valley, and instituted or set up the Tennessee Valley Authority."

LIGHT ON ORIGIN OF RED INDIANS

Buddhism Form In Funeral Rites.

ASIATIC CONNECTION

Quebec.
Some light on the origins of the North American Indian was shed by Dr. Marius Barbeau, of the Canadian National Museum, in a paper "Indian Origins—Recent Discoveries" which he read to the Royal Society here.

Among Dr. Barbeau's conclusions was the statement that an early form of Buddhism had long prevailed in the funeral rites of the Canadian northwest coast.

Dr. Barbeau said that the Indians near the Alaskan border to-day were like Asiatics—Mongolian. Their faces resembled images of Buddha, "a blend of self-indulgence and mysticism."

While studying the Indians of the northwest country for the National Museum some years ago, Dr. Barbeau engaged native singers, and recorded hundreds of their songs on gramophone records.

Travelling further north he studied the natives of the Nass river, outside the Japanese Quarters; at the Arrandale Salmon Canery he heard a gramophone reproduce a Japanese tune similar to the Indian's mountain song.

The songs he had collected were heard by Professor Kiang, of McGill University, and one of the dirges of the Alaskan frontier seemed similar to a Buddhist chant for funeral services among the nomads of Mongolia.

Other chants reminded Professor Kiang of a Chinese ceremonial song he had heard coffin-carriers sing in the streets of Peking.—Reuter.

HIT VULTURE IN MID-AIR.

Johannesburg Pilot's Thrill In Plane.

Johannesburg.

A vulture and an aeroplane were slightly damaged. The pilot, Mr. G. D. B. Williams, of the Johannesburg Light Plane Club, after watching the bird fall, returned to Baragwanath and landed.

Members of the club left in a motor-car to fetch the vulture, which was found to have a wing span of 8 ft. 6 in., and to weigh 21 lb.

Instances of children's kites and of birds in the air fouling the propellers of aeroplanes have recently been reported from overseas, but this is the first occasion, as far as is known, on which such an incident has occurred in this country.

The vulture missed the propeller but struck the top part of the plane.—Reuter.

Mr. H. W. Wells And Autobiography

How He Wrote What Is Due In Autumn

When England Could Not Read

MR. Wells, in his London flat, looking incredibly less than his sixty-seven years. His two-volume "Experiment in Autobiography" is to be published by Victor Gollancz and the Cresset Press in the early autumn.

Mr. Wells, one of the best and most copious talkers living, is disolved in malice against the interviewer for wanting him to talk about it in advance, writes an "Observer" correspondent. "Yes, I hate it. It's acute discomfort. There's the autobiography. I've written it—and there it is! What else is there to say about it?"

There is a pause for collection of ideas, unwillingly undertaken. "I've been thinking of some sort of autobiography for two or three years. . . . I didn't originally intend to publish it. It was written at first chiefly as a sort of memorandum for my sons and a few intimates. I began to jot down what I could remember . . . the story of my brain, or how I became acquainted with the world.

Job Made Easy.
"By a conspiracy of accidents, the job has been made easy. I have been able to get a mass of material for it, almost too great a mass—I wrote a lot of letters when I was young, and my friends of those days, schoolfellows and fellow students, seem to have kept the letters. And I used to draw. Possibly it was those little sketches that acted as a preservative. In going back over these I have been able to check up the authenticity of what I experienced. I found that in many ways my recollection of it was not really correct. Events had, so to speak, got 'treated' by my mind. Going back over those documents was like conducting a research into my young boyhood and adolescence.

"The biography comes down to the present time. The most interesting half of a life should, psychologically, be the first half. Everything that is acquired is acquired in that time. The rest is only the working out, the fulfilment. Barrie (Sir James) says that nothing ever happens to anyone after he is nine years old. I should give it a little longer than that—say till thirty. Nothing much has ever happened to me. The whole thing may turn out to be the tamest affair really. . . ."

Personal Contacts.
"Would a good title for it be Balzac's title, 'The Lost Illusions'?" I asked.

"O God, no!" said Mr. Wells. "In the first place, I don't quite know that I started out with any particular illusions to lose. Will there be jokes in it? I don't know. It is not a comic work—and it is not a collection of anecdotes. There are personal contacts and experiences in it, and sketches of all the people who have influenced my development—of my schoolmasters and teachers at the Royal College of Science, of my own days of teaching, when I was a lecturer and crammer and of what I learned from teaching; how I began to write; and of Shaw, and the Henry Wells, and Graham Wallis, Gollancz, and Henry James.

"When I was in my thirties I was much in contact with Henry James and Conrad and Bennett, and exchanged views and comments with them; and this involves, in its turn, comment on all these people in the autobiography.

"I have lived through," said Mr. Wells, "extraordinary changes in the life of England. In 1866, when I was born, most people could not read or did not read. The influence of the railways and telegraph and so on had not yet come to its full effect. One thought of 'Japan,' for instance, as being in another world, so remote as to be outside our world. One thought of it almost entirely in terms of Gilbert and Sullivan's 'Mikado.' There has been the impact of the war, England has passed through unanticipated economic stresses. I have lived through a complete change in the scale of human affairs, and the consequences of the change of that scale."

"Have you enjoyed it?"
Interview Not Relished.
"On the whole," said Mr. Wells, "excepting to-day—when you are interviewing me—it has been a very agreeable adventure. And I suppose that that will appear in the book, which is not all personal and social psychology. I escaped by the skin of my teeth from extreme poverty and hopelessness. Much of it is recorded in letters—and by drawing pictures. Many of these will appear in the book.

"All the time since 1894 up to the week she died there were these pictures. Drawing them used to be a regular part of the day—most days—recording visits, and ideas, and people and travel abroad. I find that more than anything else, looking at these brings me back to the 'mood of the times.' They are not classical—I drew—I never worked in an art school—and they might be called figurative and symbolic. I invented a way of drawing of my own, that 'gets there' sometimes—at any rate, gets there as far as I am concerned.

"And now is the worst over?" asked the author of "Kipps" and "Tono-Bungay," who has already put something of autobiography into these two books. "Why do I dislike interviews so much? Because if the reporter doesn't report what you say, it is bad—and if he does report what you say it is probably worse."

BEE SWARM ON DEPOSITORS

But Fail To Disperse The Crowd.

FARMER'S COOL ACTION

Hempstead, Long Island.
A swarm of 30,000 bees failed to disperse a crowd of depositors of the First National Bank here, who, for the first time since the American banking holiday in 1933, were receiving sums up to 50 per cent. of their holdings.

Although the bees, invading the bank suddenly in a body, caused symptoms of panic among the depositors, not a single person left the paying windows.

Chiefly responsible for calming the crowd was Mr. Vito Rousseau, a farmer who saw the swarm disappear into the bank as he was driving down the street. Bringing his car to a halt, he dashed after them, and assured the crowd that bees were much less likely to sting when swarming, since then they were gorged with honey.

Mr. Rousseau promptly obtained a thin stick, dipped it in sugar syrup and, much to the admiration of the crowd, groped among the thickest clusters of bees with his bare hand. He said that he was looking for the queen bee and that there was no danger.

Finally he found her, placed her on the sweetened end of the stick and laid the stick in a wooden box. Immediately the queen's convoy of about 20 workers surrounded her, followed by other bees.

It took the farmer an hour and a half to get all the bees into the box. Then, smilingly acknowledging the plauding of the crowd, he stowed them away in his automobile and drove home.—Reuter.

Now a letter has been received from Marjashetz stating that the obituary notices "were not exactly correct"—he is still alive and well.—Reuter.

Freedom

The novel and varied experiments in administration and the organisation of industry that have been set afoot in Russia, Italy, and Germany, and in some other less important European countries, to say nothing of the 'New Deal' in the United States, have given rise to an impression that there is a general trend away from the old ideals embodied in an abstract conception of Freedom, and towards a new and stricter form of authority than would have been tolerated by our fathers. It is very doubtful whether the impression is correct; it leaves out of account quite a large number of countries that have managed to carry on with their old constitutions; and it ignores the fact that dictators as a rule have appeared in countries where self-government had had a very short period to take root. It also ignores the fact that the revolutions have had an economic origin; they are an attempt to cure by means of greater efficiency the mere mockery of freedom which is all that can be enjoyed by a hungry man. The balance between the claims of freedom and order requires that every gain on one side shall be paid for by some sacrifice on the other. It is safe to say that we are all broadminded enough nowadays to adopt any change which proves that its gain exceeds its loss; what the enthusiasts object to is the operation of weighing the one against the other; and accordingly their first act has always been to suppress all criticism. This seems rather like a body-line method of political bowling.

At any rate it seems quite natural that Sir Henry Samuel, who is the leader of the Liberal party which thrives on denunciation of privilege, and which has become almost extinct because it has fulfilled its mandate, should have recently been moved to consider some of the old conceptions, and how we stand in relation to them now. Sir Herbert belongs to the generation that was fired to enthusiasm by the last perorations of Gladstonian eloquence; and he has no delusions as to the distaste of our era for "what Mr. Gladstone said in '78." He analyses the abstract word "freedom" into four distinct elements. There is national independence in defence of which he recently made a forcible speech in the House of Commons opposing any form of alliance with France which should leave to the French Government the decision whether we were to go to war or not.

Then there is constitutional liberty, which means an equal share for every citizen in deciding what sort of Government is to hold sway. Personal liberty means our right to conduct our own lives in our own way; to think as we like and say what we think, to eat and drink what we like; to go where we like and do what work we like. The fourth form of freedom, economic liberty, is what is making all the trouble in our present disturbances. Suppose we cannot get the chance of doing the work we like? No work, no pay. If we have nothing to eat, what is the use of the other freedoms?

In England an elaborate system of unemployment relief has been based on a weekly compulsory contribution, which is of course an interference with the freedom of spending our earnings at our own sweet will. At least it is so provided for the hand-worker. Why not for the whole of the rest of the workers? If the labour party were large-minded enough to agitate for and secure a national system, the Unemployment Fund would have command of large enough resources to gain practically a control of industry. In fact, as every man has to eat, the result of thinking any system out to its logical conclusion is to arrive at the suppression of any rival and antagonistic plan of organisation. The line of moderation is very difficult to draw, and is dependent on so many national idiosyncrasies and local conditions that one cannot get away from the suspicion that in all cases success depends on good practical statesmanship and the will to learn from the success or failure of experiment.

One cannot but follow these distant controversies with interest; but we ourselves seem always to be an exceptional case. How can we apply the lessons derived from homogenous and permanent populations to our own cosmopolitan and fluctuating inhabitants? Our invention of a kind of perpetual dictatorship for the purpose of securing personal freedom is paradoxical; but it does work better than any alternative that has been proposed. The difficulties of promiscuous naturalisation need not preclude a residential register which might confer a 'denizenship' on which could be based some social amelioration which would be better than our present neglect of the whole social problem. Special solutions for special circumstances is the modern word of wisdom.

He has gained a certain amount of support among the peasantry, but not sufficient to make his claim other than ridiculous.

VALET TO STAGE HEROES

An interesting Chinese visitor to London is Mr. S. I. Hsiung. He has translated works by Shaw, Hardy and Barrie into Chinese.

Having given British drama to the Chinese, Mr. Hsiung is now returning the compliment.

His preface to "Lady Precious Stream," a famous Chinese play of which Messrs. Methuen have just published his translation, deals with the functions of the stage-hand, who is a much more prominent person in the Chinese theatre than in ours.

He remains throughout the play in full view of the audience, and his duties include: providing the actors with cups of tea after a long speech, breaking the hero's fall when he dies, and smoothing with loving hands the long red beard and six-foot feathers which distinguish the inevitable bandit chief.

NOT ONLY IN CHINA

You need not, as a matter of fact, go as far as China to see the property man at work.

In an amateur performance in a little Yorkshire market town. There were gas footlights, and headlights in the fit-up, theatre. The dramatic effect of the play depended entirely on the sudden lowering and then the swift raising against the lights.

If went splendidly at the afternoon rehearsal, but in the evening, alas! the lights went out altogether. Whereupon the handyman walked solemnly across the front of the stage with a taper on the end of a long pole and relit the lights. The climax of the play somehow missed its maximum dramatic effect.

A STRONGER BRITAIN FOR PEACE

DEPLETED DEFENCES A GRAVE DANGER

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE MENACE

(By Robert Boothby, M.P.)

This is a further article in the China Mail series in which prominent men put forward their plans for establishing world peace.

London.

THE chief legacy of the war was an insurgence of turbulent and combative nationalism without parallel in the history of the world. This was due to the collapse of the Central Empires and of the whole Continental political structure, the rise of the Soviet Union, the doctrine of "self-determination," and the Treaty of Versailles. The refusal of the United States in 1919 to implement the treaty for which she bore so large a share of responsibility enormously increased the difficulties and dangers which beset Europe. Thenceforward, to the German sense of grievance was added the French sense of insecurity.

Months passed, and the fundamental problems of international affairs began to appear in sharper outline. They resolved themselves into four—namely (1) French security, (2) reparations and war debts, (3) the relationship between the Western Powers and Russia, and (4) treaty revision.

American Debt Troubles

Cast your mind back over the last fifteen years, see how many genuine attempts have been made to grapple with any single one of these problems, and you will realise how fearfully inadequate European statesmanship has been ever since the war.

French security—upon which all else depended—was never seriously considered for eight years. The question of reparations dragged on from conference to conference, holding up the economic revival of the world year after year, until it finally petered out at Lausanne after the advent of Hitler to power had become inevitable.

Meanwhile Great Britain made an independent debt settlement with America, fatal alike in conception and result, which bids fair to poison the relationship between the two great English-speaking peoples for a long time to come.

As for Russia, the choice surely lay between military invasion and the overthrow of the Soviet regime on the one hand, and the establishment of reasonable political relations, accompanied by maximum trade development, on the other. The Allies adopted neither course, and in so doing got the worst of both worlds and added to the general sense of insecurity.

They Kept On Talking

Is it to be wondered at that in these circumstances economic warfare broke out in every quarter, and armaments began to grow?

And what did these precious statesmen do then? They continued to shirk all the main problems which confronted them—both political and economic—and started a series of discussions about the armaments of which those problems were the immediate cause.

From all over the world politicians, accompanied by numbers of admirals and generals, arrived at Geneva, and started talking about bombs, tanks, and artillery. New and pressing dangers, which had not hitherto been thought of, suddenly appeared in a menacing light; no agreements were reached or seemed possible; and gradually public opinion in many countries became more and more exasperated and alarmed.

The international economic war was intensified, and armaments steadily increased, while the politicians, the admirals, and the generals talked.

This Dangerous Farce

Alas! they are talking still. I am convinced that the present Disarmament Conference has become a definite menace to the peace of the world. The best it can hope to do is to produce an arms convention which, from a practical point of view, must be valueless.

On the other hand, if it is allowed to drag on indefinitely, it may yet succeed in goading the now thoroughly frightened nations of Europe into war. The first thing to do if we want to secure peace is to bring this hypocritical and dangerous farce to an end, and attack the real problems before it is too late.

These protagonists of the policy of reconciliation, and they include some of the greatest statesmen Europe has produced, were all broken by the intransigence of successive French Governments, which finally drove a desperate people into Hitlerism.

Fearing To Face Facts

No doubt the French are greatly to blame for the present situation. Those of us who were regular visitors to Germany after the war observed, with increasing alarm and despondency, the disrepute into which the moderate democratic forces steadily fell owing to the failure of their leaders—Erzberger, Wirth, Rathenau, Stresemann, Brüning—to deliver any kind of goods.

But can we escape all share of responsibility? I think not. There is in the British character a certain reluctance to face unpalatable facts which, when it is applied, as it frequently is, to foreign affairs, causes us to be regarded abroad with considerable mistrust.

Too often it is accompanied by a kind of "moral uplift" which finds expression in a tendency to lecture the rest of the world, and produces general charges of hypocrisy from indignant foreigners who do not like being lectured.

A Menace To The Country

For example, our so-called "pacifists"—and there are many of them—never tire of abusing the Government (1) because they do not disarm completely, and (2) because they do not take "firm action" against Japan or Germany or some other country which has temporarily evoked their hostility.

These people are, in my opinion, by far the greatest danger to peace in this country. To talk about applying "sanctions" unbacked by force is nothing short of criminal, and in doing so they deliberately deceive themselves, and others. If we pay attention to them, as we did before 1914, they will once again land us in war, with inadequate armaments.

GUESTS WHO CAME TO ROB

Host Rewarded After Hold-Up.

BOUNTIFUL BANDITS

Belgrade. Three strangers came to the house of Ivan Vink of Subotizza, and asked him to put them up for the night.

He did so—and gave them a good dinner, with wine, as well. During the night Ivan was awakened by something cold pressing against his forehead. It was the muzzle of a revolver.

The "guests" were three notorious bandits. They demanded money and, when Ivan said he had none, proceeded to search the house—in vain.

Then the leader pressed his revolver against Ivan's head once more.

"I shall count ten," he said. "If you have not told us by then where your money is I shall shoot."

He counted ten. Ivan remained silent.

"Now I believe you when you say you have no money," said the bandit. "You are a good fellow, and it is a pity you are so poor. Here is something for you."

He took out of his pocket a wallet stuffed with banknotes, handed one of them worth about 24 to Ivan and, with his companions, disappeared into the night.—Reuter.

NEW YORK MARKET STEADY

Indications Of More Advances.

FRACTIONAL GAINS MADE.

New York, To-day. The New York market is steady. Some hesitancy is attributed to the reports that the Stock Exchange Control Commission and the Federal Reserve Board are considering various margin questions. Fractional gains, however, predominate, with indications of a slight extension of the advances. —United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

S. E. Levy and Company's Report

In their market report, Messrs. S. E. Levy and Company, correspondents for Messrs. White, Weld and Company, New York state: "Stocks:—Prices are drifting on a dull and discouraging market and traders are likely to continue awaiting a new stimulus. Business done:—480,000 shares. Bonds:—High-grade issues are firm and quiet. Second-grade are unchanged. Wheat:—The weakness of the corn market was the principal influence in the selling of other grains. We believe that the present strong cash market warrants the accumulation of wheat on any fair set-backs. Wednesday's sales:—42,220,000 bushels. Corn:—The market is undergoing a healthy period of correction from its recent over-bought condition. Wednesday's sales 19,191,000 bushels. Oats:—The crop and supply situation is extremely bullish. Cotton:—There has been some selling due to fears of a strike in the textile industry and also on rumors in Oklahoma, while uncertainty regarding Government action caused additional liquidation. We would confine purchases to any breaks. Rubber:—Considerable speculative and other profit-taking was absorbed by dealer and factory interests. Business done:—486 lots. Favourable factors before the opening of the market were:—The continued strength of the bonds market and the fact that the stocks market continues to display a good technical position. Unfavourable factors were:—The continued labour unrest, including the threatened strike in the cotton textile industry and the fact that rallies still lack any follow-through. The following message was received by Messrs. S. E. Levy & Co. from Messrs. White, Weld & Co. of New York:—"Senator Bankhead says that he is confident that the Cotton Loan Plan will be continued and that he will insist upon the Loan value being increased to 13 cents per lb."

Night Telegrams

The following telegrams were received by Messrs. S. E. Levy & Co. from Messrs. White, Weld & Co. from Reuters:—"The threatened textile strike is likely to cause some liquidation in the cotton market. Considering the uncertainty surrounding the markets, caution against buying on bulges is reiterated. The following telegrams were received by Messrs. S. E. Levy & Co. from Reuters:—"The market is steady with some hesitancy, which is attributed to reports that the Control Commission and the Federal Reserve Board are considering the various phases of the marginal requirement question, but fractional gains predominate, with indication of a slight extension in advances. Drastic revisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's crop control policies are being formulated, following the report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics that normal surpluses in practically all staples and farm products are wiped out by the drought. It is understood that while production control would not be abandoned, emphasis will be laid on expanding acreage to compensate for drought losses. A seat on the New York Cotton Exchange has sold for $18,000, an increase of $500 from the previous price paid for a seat."

THE CURE

By Chiltern Marex.

SIR FREDERICK HUNTLEY pressed the little white knob on his desk and, smiling genially, held out his hand.

"Carry out my instructions, have a good holiday, and you will come back as fit as you ever were." Automatically he took the card of his last appointment from his secretary and, stroking his chin thoughtfully, murmured the name aloud: "Mrs. Corringham." Then he looked at his note-pad. "Oh, yes, I remember," he said, nodding to the girl.

Half a minute later he saw before him a woman with whom the years had dealt lightly, a woman to whom nature had been originally generous. Those grey eyes, that perfect aquiline nose, and the soft texture of those cheeks; what ravages time may have attempted had been marvelously countered by the beauty specialists. Her hair still jet black and her figure that of a girl of 25, yet with the practised eye of a specialist Sir Frederick knew that she must be 50. She had the stateliness of a queen and the air of one accustomed to cultured attention.

He motioned her to a chair by the long windows. He always put patients there on their first appearance, where the light fell full on their faces and he could study them minutely. The heavy brown curtains contrasted well with the woman's fur.

"I don't know why my husband insists on wasting his money and your time over me. I am not ill, but he says my nerves are all to pieces. Perhaps when you have told him I am all right he will be satisfied."

"But I understand from your own medical man that you don't sleep at night. That is often the first step towards a serious illness, you know," the specialist told her quietly.

BINNIE BARNES IN HOLLYWOOD.

To Play Role In New Production.

New York. Miss Binnie Barnes, the English film actress who played Katherine Howard in "Henry the Eighth," has been added to the cast of an American picture tentatively entitled "There's Always Tomorrow," which has been put into production at Universal City, Hollywood. Miss Barnes is not quite a stranger to America, having already made a brief visit to New York. On that occasion she arrived and returned on the same boat. —Reuter.

"If everyone with a worry dashed off to Harley-street, you would have all London on your doorstep," replied Mrs. Corringham with asperity.

"But aren't you making the mountain? Surely one in your position can have no real worry." Mrs. Corringham was looking out across the Park and pondered her reply. Then those pretty lips tightened and she turned her head.

"I am an ambitious woman, Sir Frederick. My life's desire, all that I have schemed for, has been to have a son who would be famous. Providence gave me that son. For twenty-five years I have nursed and nurtured him. To-day he is standing high in the Diplomatic Service, and with the whole of London's debutantes to choose from he has become entangled with a common girl. A girl in an hotel book-shop," she said scornfully, and then added, a shade sharply: "Isn't that a cause for mental agony?"

"A girl in an hotel book-shop," repeated Sir Frederick meditatively. "Yes. Perhaps you know 'The Bouvierie'?" Well, that is where she works. Can you think of anything more awful!"

MONDAY'S STORY

Monday's story will be "Moscow Starlings."

"That depends on the girl. Anyway, though it may be awkward it is hardly disastrous."

"If Jack marries that minx, disastrous is just the word," flared Mrs. Corringham.

Sir Frederick had been watching those dainty fingers tapping the arm of the chair. No, Mrs. Corringham was not a nerve case, but a very determined woman, and he was high enough in his profession to tell her so. But one thing made him hesitate. That tiny scar over the right eye had a certain familiarity for him, and while the patient talked he was trying to fathom it.

Suddenly he rose from his chair. "And your only reason for being against the marriage is the girl's present station in life?"

"She'll drag him down."

"Is that quite fair?" asked Sir Frederick, picking up a stethoscope. "It is where a person is going, not where he comes from, that matters."

"Platitudes, Sir Frederick! They don't hold water nowadays." "I know of a specific case," replied Sir Frederick quickly.

"But exceptions don't prove the rule." "I was not born with a silver spoon; far from it. We are apt to forget the rungs of the bottom ladder when we have reached the glittering heights."

Mrs. Corringham shifted her eyes from Sir Frederick's steady gaze. "I won't admit your logic," she cried, jumping up. "No, it is hard for one such as you, who has always lived in the lap of luxury, but think it over."

As soon as Mrs. Corringham had gone, Sir Frederick telephoned to an old friend, and after five minutes' conversation was helped into his coat and hat and strolled towards his flat.

Lady Huntley sprang from a mound of cushions beside the fire as he entered. Three years before she had been one of London's reigning beauties, with an entourage fit for a princess. When all society was wondering which man she would choose, she met Sir Frederick. The case was electric on both sides. People said they could not understand it; her marrying a man twenty years older than herself was quite understandable for Sir Frederick was a man of substance, but the absurdity was the real devotion, which people said could not last. But the world is usually wrong, and to-day there was only one man in the world for the much-sought woman who had been Cynthia Marton.

Bert Wheeler, screen comedian, has deserted the sands of the Pacific for those of the Atlantic and is seen at Lido Beach, Long Island, with Miss Patty Parker, who really is our reason for using this picture.

OLD MAN OF THE WOODS.

44 Year's Wandering In Norway And Sweden.

Stockholm. An old man of 74 has been wandering for 44 years over Sweden and Norway, keeping, whenever possible, to the woods and the wilderness.

His name is Westerstroem and has just been arrested by the police of Aelvdalen as a vagabond but was released as he had never come into conflict with the law.

He learnt from the police that his relatives 24 years ago had applied to the courts to presume his death, and he now intends to walk to Motala, his birthplace, 200 miles from Aelvdalen to show them that he is very much alive, for a doctor who examined him found that he was perfectly sound in health.

He relates that he left his family as a young man because he wanted to live in the woods, which he has done ever since, occasionally earning a meal or a little money by working for a day or two on a farm.—Reuter.

WAR ARGUMENT ENDS IN COURT

Bone Of Contention For 14 Years.

U.S. NAVY "VICTORY"

New York. Clifford Brooker, who served in the World War as an infantryman, and his wife Lillian, who was a yeomanette in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, argued about the war for 14 years. The bone of contention was—Which branch of America's fighting forces actually won the war?

The husband argued his case so forcibly one Saturday night that his wife had him arrested for disorderly conduct.

When the case was called the magistrate asked Mrs. Brooker: "If your husband tells you that the Navy won the war, will you be satisfied?"

Mrs. Brooker said she would. Whereupon the magistrate ruled:

"The judicial determination is so far as the happiness of the Brookers is concerned, that the Navy won the war. Is that right, Brooker?"

The husband nodded and sentence was suspended.—Reuter.

PENMANSHIP OUSTS TYPEWRITER

78-Foot Long Petition For King.

ERASURES NOT PERMITTED

Perth, Western Australia. The petition for Secession, to be presented to the King and the Houses of Parliament, will be written by hand, and will be 78 feet long and 13 inches wide.

The hero of the piece is Mr. E. G. Saunders, late of the Crown Law Department.

The penmanship to the layman appears perfect. Any such petition must be handwritten, to be "received" by King and the British Parliament.

Mr. Saunders has to do three copies. One is the address to His Majesty, another to the House of Lords and the third to the House of Commons.

Roughly there are 800 lines in each scroll, which is 26 feet long. Erasures of any kind are not permitted. Even joins in the scroll must be written over to show that the document has not been interfered with.

Although over 60, Mr. Saunders has a steady hand. The petition will go to London in a jarrah casket.—Reuter.

CHINA MAY BE DRIVEN OFF SILVER

LONDON JOURNAL'S NOTE OF WARNING

PREMATURE ANXIETY?

London, To-day.

In a leading article on the effect of the United States buying of silver on trade and the general economic situation of China, the "Financial Times" states that while a true higher value silver will be reflected in the greater purchasing power for Western commodities in the Far East, a higher value must first be established, and the process may occasion disturbances serious enough to defeat its object.

Anxiety is perhaps premature until it is known whether the United States Government means to pursue silver-buying abroad on a very large scale, the journal adds.

It is presumed that it will go no further than necessary to appease the silver group, it continues, but that it may well be too far for the comfort of China.

ENGLAND'S SETBACK

Australia, but they have recorded one other success in the course of the other 15 matches played on this ground.

Tremendous Interest.

London, To-day.

The final cricket test match of the present series will open at Kennington Oval to-day. As the destination of the "Ashes" depends upon the result, the match will be played to a finish, without time limit. Exceptional interest is being taken in the match, and advance bookings for seats have been exceptionally heavy.

The composition of the teams will be finally decided to-day, but it is expected that Tim Wall, who is still suffering from his recent injury, will be replaced by the second Australian fast bowler, H. I. Ebeling, and that L. Darling's place will be taken by A. E. Kippax.—British Wireless Service.

DELICIOUS DRINKS FOR HOT DAYS

Beverages Easy To Prepare.

REFRIGERATOR ADVANTAGE

Sparkling ice cubes and a variety of ingredients in your refrigerator make refreshing beverages at any time. This is one of the special joys and advantages of having a refrigerator.

Sugar Syrup

This is more quickly soluble than dry sugar and gives a smoother body to the beverage. To make it, dissolve two cups of sugar in one cup of boiling water. Boil slowly for 15 minutes and set aside to cool. Then place in a bottle. Keep the syrup in your refrigerator for sweetening beverages.

Grape Sparkle

Fill tea server half full of ice cubes. Add 1 quart of grape juice. Place near freezer of refrigerator and chill until serving time. Fill glasses 2/3 full of grape juice, filling the remainder of the glass with ginger ale.

Milk Shake

To one cup of cold milk add 2 teaspoons of any flavouring desired. Sweeten to taste. Add one crushed ice cube and shake until frothy. A dash of nutmeg or cinnamon may be added to each serving.

Malted Milk

Combine 1 tablespoon of malted milk powder with 1 cup of chilled milk. Shake well and serve very cold. It might be well to add one crushed ice cube before shaking.

Ice Cream Fizz

Place a generous serving of vanilla ice cream in a tall tumbler or iced tea glass. Fill with ginger ale. An iced-tea spoon should accompany each serving, as stirring is necessary. This gives a novelty beverage quite like an ice cream soda.

Cream Ale

Put two tablespoons heavy cream and 1 1/2 teaspoons of sugar into iced-tea glass or tall goblet. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Add ice cube and allow to remain for a few minutes. Slowly fill the glass with ginger ale.

Orange And Lemon.

6 oranges
2 lemons
1 cup sugar
1 quart water

Combine fruit juices and sugar. Place in server. Add ice cubes and water. Serve in glasses, adding one ice cube and a maraschino cherry to each serving. If plain water is used, this refreshing drink can be kept in the bottle compartment of refrigerator and served when desired.

Mint Ice Tea.

Brew tea. Mint leaves may be added at the time or placed in each glass with the ice cube before served. A red or green mint cherry can be placed in each glass if desired.

Drain juice from can of pineapple. Cook sugar, water and pineapple juice slowly for ten minutes. Add pineapple pulp and lemon juice. Cool. Pour into freezing tray and allow to freeze until firm. Remove mixture to ice-cold mixing bowl and beat with rotary beater until light. Add cream and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites to which salt has been added. Return to tray and finish freezing. ## TASTY SANDWICH FILLINGS

Can Be Kept Ready In Cold Store.

The mechanical refrigerator will surprise you by its contribution to the ease of all sandwich and canape preparation. In the first place, fillings can be kept ready-made in covered jars. They may be taken out a few minutes before you are ready to make sandwiches and will then be soft enough at room temperature to spread. Then quantities given in the recipes are of medium size, but may be doubled or tripled.

Savory Filling

1/2 cup dried beef
1/2 cup American cheese
1/2 cup ketchup or tomato purée
Run dried beef and cheese through meat grinder. Add enough ketchup or tomato purée to moisten.

Dip into mixture and place on greased pan to harden.

Cook Vegetables Uncovered.

Remember to cook all green vegetables uncovered. Start them cooking in boiling water and serve just as soon as tender. Prolonged cooking not only causes loss of colour but makes the vegetable unappetisingly soft and tasteless.

TO POLISH GLASSES

If you want your water glasses to be clear and shiny, don't rinse them. Simply wash them in clean, very hot, soapy water and dry immediately. The same rule applies to bowls, flower vases and other glassware.

Preparing Fresh Carrots.

New carrots, cut in slices, cook tender in 15 minutes. Diced they will take longer. Since they are lightly scraped, they are quickly prepared and only a few minutes need be allowed for their preparation.

COOL CAKE FIRST

When putting cakes into straight tin, do not put them in straight from the oven, but let them cool quite cold.

Kitchen Cabinet Care

How To Preserve Enamel Paint.

Kitchen cabinets made of wood enamelled in pale colours are inclined to soil quickly, but they should never be cleaned or washed with water containing soda or the enamel will wear thin and streaky.

The best way to preserve the enamel paint and to keep it clean with the minimum of trouble is to polish the cabinet with furniture cream.

If this method is adopted, the cabinet will not become soiled nearly so quickly.

A periodic sponging with warm soapy water will keep the cabinet in good order. A cloth dipped in lemon juice and salt will remove stains from the white enamel pullout table attached to most kitchen cabinets.

HOT ROLLS FOR BREAKFAST

1 cake compressed yeast
1 cup lukewarm milk
4 tablespoons fat, melted
1 teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons sugar

Let stand until dough has doubled in size (it will require about 4 hours in warm weather and longer on cool days). Break off bits of the soft dough and shape into round rolls. Arrange side by side on greased baking pan. Cover with cloth and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven.

CARE OF WATER FILTERS

Something often forgotten is the water filter. Take it off every little while and give it a good, thorough scouring. You'll see that it needs it.

OSAKA SHOSHEN KAISHA,

President Roosevelt never forgot a visit to one of the hangouts of Teach, the pirate famed as "Blackbeard," which he made near St. Thomas, in the Virgin Islands, 30 years ago, and it was one of the first places he wanted to see when he landed there from the U.S.S. Houston during his recent vacation. He is seen visiting it with F. D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Governor Pearson.

THE CURE

Sir Frederick held the dainty little form close to him and kissed her passionately.

"Well, thank goodness I'm home, and haven't to go out again to-night. We'll have a quiet evening by the fire, eh?"

The little vision in blue looked at him seriously for a moment, then settled herself beside him.

"Yes, it will be lovely."

A roguish smile played around her husband's eyes.

"Did you get those tickets for 'The Sphinxman' to-night?"

"Yes, darling, but you are tired. We can go any night—or not at all. I don't mind."

"You silly dear, I was only joking. I hadn't forgotten. Of course we are going. We'll dine at 'The Bouverie'."

"Where's that? Oh, yes, I've heard of the place, of course. It's all the rage just now, isn't it? There you are! Now run off and dress, and kissing him, she hurried from the room.

There are two sides to every man's life. The world never credits a celebrity with any romance; but now Sir Frederick the lover gazed into the fire, thanking Providence for the finest little woman in the world.

Later that evening, on entering the hotel, he paused at the book-stall in the magnificent lounge. The girl whom Sir Frederick addressed was auburn-haired and elegant; and there was a slight flush as he asked whether she knew a Mr. Corringham adding: "I expected to meet him by your book-stall to-night."

Yes, she did know him she said, haltingly, but she had not seen him come in yet. Sir Frederick thanked her and moved on.

"What do you think of her?" he asked his wife when they were seated at their table.

"She made me think of a rose in a bed of marigolds. What a beautiful girl, and how nicely she speaks."

"You never are catty about anyone," he told her, admiringly. "Do you really mean that?"

"Yes, darling, of course. Why?"

"One day I'll tell you. But I rather wanted to have your opinion—that's why I suggested coming here."

"Mrs. Corringham kept her appointment with Sir Frederick punctually at three on the following Monday afternoon.

"Well," he inquired, significantly.

"Worse than ever. Jack swears he will announce his engagement before his leave expires."

"Splendid!" replied Sir Frederick.

"What on earth do you mean?"

"Do you know the girl?"

"I have seen her. You won't meet her, but my wife—who is one of the best judges of her own sex in London—thinks she is a splendid girl."

For a moment the woman remained silent.

"Cynthia Marton approves, does she? And Cynthia never made a mistake in 'character.' Mrs. Corringham's voice slowed down and died off as the sentence ended.

"Have you changed your mind about my logic, Mrs. Corringham?"

"The decisive 'No!' brought a smile to Sir Frederick's face.

"By the way," he said, "you are interested in antiques, Mrs. Corringham. I have something here I would like you to see. It belongs to an old friend of mine. I have a certain sneaking regard for it because it resulted in one of my first cases. I was staying in his house for the night, after a dance. A maid cleaning a room in the early morning fell and cut herself badly. They called me out. I had only just qualified, and having an emergency case with me sewed up the cut."

Sir Frederick drew forward an antique coal-scuttle.

Mrs. Corringham, deathly white, was looking into Sir Frederick's sphinx-like features.

"What are you thinking?" she cried at last.

"I was priding myself on what an excellent job I made of that eye of yours."

Mrs. Corringham dropped into a chair, momentarily natural; bereft of all her artifices, she stared at the bright colours in the sunlit Turkey carpet. For a few moments only the clock ticking on the mantelpiece could be heard.

Then she rose and held out her hand to the specialist.

"Not without reason do they call you one of London's cleverest men, Sir Frederick. And you will keep my secret?"

"Madame," replied the specialist, "my profession is medicine."

THE END.

CANADIAN ENSIGN UNCHANGED

Merchant Ship Flag To Retain Shield.

SENATE DECISION

With the adoption by the Senate of an amendment that the "Shield of Canada be restored as the Canadian emblem" in the Shipping Bill, the Dominion will retain its present Mercantile Marine flag. The Senate Banking and Commerce Committee had designed legislation for a new flag, which, if approved, would have meant the replacing of the shield by a maple leaf.

During the discussion on the amendment, Senator Dandurand said the first Canadian Mercantile Marine flag, the Red Ensign with the Canadian coat of arms of the four original provinces, was adopted in 1892.

In 1921 the coat of arms was changed to include all the provinces, and the Mercantile Marine flag was changed the following year, which held until 1924. He felt that the time was opportune to make the change. People throughout the world would realize the significance of the maple leaf more than the coat of arms.

Senator Griesbach urged that the flag question should be held in abeyance until the national flag issue was decided. He believed the national flag should be the Union Jack, with some symbolic representation of French and British nationality. There were 1,500 ships which would have to change their flag now, and change again if the national flag were adopted.

Famed Cathedral of Mexico, Mexico City.

Gen. Lazaro Cardenas.

With the election of General Lazaro Cardenas as President of Mexico after one of the quietest pollings in years, the Republic plans to swing vigorously into the six-year plan drafted as a platform by the National Revolutionary party, the dominant Mexican political organization. The plan, which calls for a definite trend towards socialism without interference in private enterprise, aims to improve the workers' standard of living; establish minimum wages; promote mass education; promote agrarian reform and public work projects; and improve Mexican relations with foreign countries. General Cardenas, former War Minister, the first President to be chosen under the six-year term, hopes to push forward national prohibition among his first measures.

CRUISER'S MEMORY CRUISE

Famous German Ship
In Caribbean.

ONCE PRIDE OF NAVY

Berlin.
Two Moewe—the famous German auxiliary which during the Great War ravaged Allied shipping in Central American waters—is now on her way to the Caribbean Sea where she will be navigated through the scenes of some of her most renowned exploits by her war-time commander, Count Nicholas Dohna-Schledien.

Once the pride of the German navy, the Moewe is now a banana freighter bearing the name of Oldenburg.

She began her war raids early in 1916 after slipping past the British Blockade in the North Sea. She was disguised as a Norwegian merchantman. She was never caught although she sank many merchant ships and captured a British steamer, the Appam.

After the Armistice, she was surrendered to Britain and later sold to a British firm of banana importers for use as a banana freighter.

Last year, for sentimental reasons, a German firm of banana importers bought her and renamed her Oldenburg.

At the invitation of this firm, Count Dohna, his wife and his two daughters are now on their way to Honduras in the Oldenburg. Directly she enters the Caribbean Sea Count Dohna will take command and under his hands the freighter will once again follow the course of the Moewe—acquire of the Caribbean—Reuter.

IDLE NORWEGIAN TONNAGE.

Reduced To 119 During June.

According to figures supplied by the Norwegian Shipowners' Association, the number of laid-up vessels was reduced by 27 to 119 during June the tonnage being reduced by some 40,000 tons d.w. to 584,592 tons d.w.

The decrease was principally in timber tonnage. On the other hand the tonnage of tankers fell rose from 172,355 tons d.w. to 258,450 tons d.w. during the month, eight vessels being laid-up. At present 27 tankers are lying idle in port.

MAMAK HOCKEY TO CONTINUE

Secretary's Report

The Hon. Secretary, Mr. P. J. Barlow, in his report on the year's working said,

"In presenting the Third Annual Report I have pleasure in stating that our past season has been as successful as in previous years and our Tournament continues to provide what appears to be wanted in the matter of local competitive hockey. There are many opinions on the subject of competitive hockey, both for and against. I cannot see any reason why there should not be competition in the game, for, so long as it is played keenly and fosters the team spirit, there is little to be said against it."

"Consideration of the need for competition games leads me to remind you of the responsibility of the local Association in the matter. There is every need of the Hong Kong Hockey Association giving its attention in the future. It is more than possible that next year the Association will sponsor competitive games. In the meantime we must rely on our organization to fill such needs as exist."

"It might seem to you that the falling off in the numbers of Clubs entering last season, compared with the previous season, indicated a waning interest. I do not think this was so. Rather was it due to the experience of Clubs finding themselves unable to cope with the heavy fixture list."

Mamak Tourney Effect

"The Mamak Hockey Tournament has now completed its third season, and if it is not to be a permanent organization in the Colony's hockey it has filled a long felt want. We have learned much by experience, and it is my belief that another season will meet with even greater success than the last."

"Touching on last season's events, I want to mention first our Dinner. I am sure you will all agree that it was a huge success. Our thanks are due to Mr. White, the organizer, and his very capable committee. I hope the dinner is but the forerunner of many."

"We had 14 Clubs entered last season. Unfortunately the Hong Kong Mule Corps were obliged to withdraw half-way through the season owing to their inability, for military reasons, to complete their fixtures. The German Club, having lost players owing to departures from the Colony, were unable to field a team either in the preliminary or in the final, and they withdrew. I hope we can welcome the return of these Clubs. They both suffer from shortage of players owing to their small numbers, and their efforts to carry on are all the more appreciable.

"The Police Recreation Club were successful in reaching the top of the Tournament Table without losing a single point. This is a very fine achievement and one demanding our heartiest congratulations."

Zealous Workers Leave

"During the season we lost the services of Lieut.-Comdr. Leigh, a Vice President. You all know that he did much for hockey in Hong Kong and his departure is to be very much regretted. We also lost the services of the Rev. W. Walton Rogers, a popular Vice President for three years. You will also regret the departure of Chief Petty Officer Clarke, of H.M.S. Medway, a very energetic member of the Executive, and a keen umpire. We owe a great deal to these people for their zealous interest, and I hope we shall be able to replace them with equally zealous members."

"The question of umpiring is of great importance and for immediate consideration. So much depends upon it that it either makes a good game or a bad one. There were many complaints during the past season of the quality of umpiring, many of them, no doubt, justified. The Mamak Tournament, however, is not the only organization suffering from inexperienced umpires."

"It is a matter which appears to have been overlooked in Hong Kong in the past. It is surprising how few people here know the Rules of Hockey in detail, apart from the interpretations that may be put upon them by umpires. The Tournament is able to provide only those umpires who are willing to undertake games, and until such time as some of them gain experience, we must accept their endeavours in good faith."

Club Support Urged

"Last year the Hong Kong Hockey Association provided ways to examine and qualify umpires. I regret to say there was little response from Clubs in the Tournament. I hope this year Clubs will send more members for examination."

"I conclude, our shield may not be completed for this is quite definite in view of the affiliation of the Hong Kong Hockey Association to the Hockey Association (England). The shield has been returned to Mr. Mamak, the donor, with our sincere thanks for his kindness. Regrettably, but knowing at least that it prompted the spirit of an organization which has achieved a measure of success which otherwise might have failed."

PACIFIC FREIGHT INCREASE SEEN.

Higher U.S. Wages May

JAPANESE CONFERENCE

The Japanese Pacific freight conference is likely to raise the pool freightage as a result of the recent longshoremen's strike along the Pacific coast of the United States, in view of the fact that the shipowners will probably be obliged to pay more for cargo work, it is learned in Japanese shipping circles in Shanghai.
Apart from the closed shop on which the strikers are firmly insistent, other terms of settlement are known to be as follows:
1. Working hours should be reduced from 48 to 30 hours a week, and over-time allowances should be paid.
2. Wages should be raised

LIGHTNING STRIKES RADIO STATION

Perth, Western Australia.

Flashing down an aerial and into the station itself, a lightning discharge struck national station 6Wf during the evening session. It leaped across the protective aerials, burnt out some condensers, and did minor damage to other portions of the plant. The station was off the air for several hours.—Reuter.

from 85 cents to US$1 per hour.

In view of the fact that the American shipowners have tentatively approved these terms of settlement, it is more than likely that they will be put into practice, hence the increase of burden on the part of the shipowners and the subsequent shift of the burden to the Pacific pool freightage.

MINISTER TO PHILIPPINES

When asked concerning his opinion on the general conditions in China the new envoy said that for the last decade China has been advancing progressively, politically, socially, and economically, in every respect.

"We have advanced farther into political thought than ever before. Socially, our living condition is improving. Economically, we are organising greater enterprises and various construction works. I have every optimism for the future of China," he concluded.

Dissatisfied Dizzy Dean Goes To Chicago.

U.S. BASEBALL RESULTS

New York, To-day.
Paul Dean, the St. Louis Cardinals pitcher, who with Dizzy
Dean were suspended last Tuesday by their manager, Frankie Frisch, for refusing to take part in an exhibition game, was reinstated after regretting the
"misunderstanding."

His return was marked by an overwhelming victory in the major league baseball yesterday over the Philadelphia Phillies by a margin of 12 to 2. He is credited with having won the game for the Cardinals.

Dizzy Dean, however, is not satisfied with matters, and has left for Chicago to interview Commissioner Landis. The latter will go to St. Louis on Monday to review
the case.

All eight teams in the American league met in double-headers.
Washington Senators, 1938 champions, took both games against Cleveland Indians.

Gomez blanked Detroit Tigers in their first meeting to give the Yankees the verdict, but Rowe replied in like manner for the Tigers, shutting out the Yankee batters for nine innings.

Coleman of the Philadelphia Athletics scored a personal triumph by hitting three homers against the Chicago White Sox in their doubleheader.
